THE GIRLS ARE BACK IN TOWN!!!

AUSTIN — Back after four successful runs for another trip down Mammary Lane, Everybody Loves Boobs! returns to Austin's Vortex Theater next month for a limited four-day engagement ending on Valentine's Day.

The endearingly uninhibited production, brainchild of Austin's Pam Ingalls and co-producer Colin J. Higgins, celebrates breasts in all their complicated glory with a rousing blend of drama, comedy, multimedia and cabaret-style musical productions.

A poignant but light-hearted peek into the form and function of breasts, it spins touching and titillating tales about the uniquely individual, ever-changing relationship that women — and society — have with their breasts throughout their lives.

Featured performers include burlesque artist Goldie Candela, formerly of the Austin Jigglewatts Burlesque Revue; an ensemble cast of wildly creative actors including stage stalwart Tony Salinas for his fifth year; and the Class Act dance troupe.

Everybody Loves Boobs! opens at 8 p.m. nightly at the Vortex Theater at 2307 Manor Road in East Austin from Wednesday, Feb. 11 thru Saturday, Feb. 14. Wednesday and Thursday night tickets range from $15 to $25, while tickets to the Friday and Valentine's Day shows run $25 to $35. A $100 Lovers' Special — available by reservation only for the Friday and Saturday shows — includes priority seating, a bottle of champagne and dessert.

So, toss your inhibitions aside and join us at the Vortex next month as we celebrate our lifelong love of boobs. You may sigh or you may cry but you'll definitely bust out laughing.

Cleavage Chronicles' Everybody Loves Boobs! is a Pamalot Production. Tickets can be purchased at vortexrep.org or at cleavagechronicles.com.
